Curriculum for Doctoral studies in Sociology

Curriculum Approval

The curriculum was approved by the Faculty Board of Arts and Social Sciences on 2 June 2016.

General stipulations for PhD programmes are provided in the Higher Education Act and in the Higher Education Ordinance. The PhD programme is offered to the extent permitted by available funding.

1. General Information

In 1969, the Department of Sociology at Gothenburg University branched out to the Gothenburg affiliation Karlstad University College. In 1999 sociology was approved as a doctoral discipline in connection with the inauguration of Karlstad University. Today the sociology department runs research projects in the fields of critical age studies, organisation theory, resistance studies, and social movements. These projects accentuate a range of classic and modern sociological theories and concepts such as social capital, class, gender, sexuality, homosociality, emotion, ritual, to which doctoral students are effectively introduced in the research seminars on current sociological problems. The department also interacts with other disciplines at Karlstad University and other higher education institutions regarding doctoral courses and supervision.

In accordance with Karlstad University's equal opportunities policy, gender issues are addressed throughout the programme.

2.2 Subject Specific Objectives

The subject specific aims of doctoral studies in Sociology at Karlstad University are as follows:

The aim of doctoral studies in sociology is that students develop skills in scientific analysis and in conducting independent research relating to social structures, processes and actors. On completion students should be able to demonstrate theoretical and methodological knowledge, experience of theoretical analysis and concrete research, firm grasp of central sociological theories and perspectives as well as broad knowledge of social conditions and the potential of sociological research.

Doctoral studies in sociology also prepare students for an academic career and for professional investigative work in private and public organisations.

3. Admission Requirements

Applicants to doctoral studies must meet the general admission requirements as well as the specific admission requirements and be judged to have the ability otherwise required to pursue the programme successfully (Higher Education Ordinance, Ch.7, § 35).

3.1 General eligibility

A person who has earned a master's degree of at least 240 ECTS credits of which at least 60 ECTS cr are studies at master's level, or who in some other way in the country or abroad has acquired largely equivalent knowledge has general eligibility for admission. If there are special reasons for doing so, the higher education institution may grant an individual applicant exemption from the general eligibility (Higher Education Ordinance, Ch.7, § 39).

3.2. Special eligibility

A person who has completed courses in sociology totalling at least 120 ECTS cr, of which 30 ECTS cr are Master-level credits has special eligibility for admission to doctoral studies in sociology. A person who, in some other way in the country or abroad has acquired equivalent knowledge, also has special eligibility.

4. Admission Procedure

Applications for admission to doctoral studies are processed in accordance with the procedures prescribed by the Board of Karlstad University.

5. Selection

Candidates will be selected on the basis of their assessed capacity to successfully complete a programme at the doctoral level. In the ranking and selection of the candidates, special attention will be paid to previous study records, the quality of previously performed research or development work, especially at Master's level. Special consideration will also be given to the candidates proposed research area, supervision capacity and to the candidate's intention to be present and participate in the disciplinary research environment.

6. Content and Outline

The doctoral programme can lead to a doctoral or licentiate degree. The doctoral degree requires four years of study, the equivalent of 240 ECTS credits, and the licentiate degree two years or 120 ECTS credits.

The studies include course work as well as independent thesis work. To earn a doctoral degree, the candidate must complete 60 ECTS credits of course work and 180 ECTS credits of thesis work. To earn a licentiate degree, the candidate is required to complete 30 ECTS credits of course work and 90 ECTS credits of thesis work.

6.1 Courses
